

Purpose of Electronic Submission of Briefs

Electronic briefs submitted to the Supreme Court are provided to the Appellate Advocacy Committee of the Connecticut Bar Association for publication on <http://blog.ctbriefsonline.com> as a service to the bar and the public at large.

Guidelines for Electronic Submission of Briefs

1. The technical standards approved and promulgated by the Office of the Chief Court Administrator are adopted for the purpose of the electronic submission of Supreme Court briefs. The standards specifically applicable to submission of Supreme Court briefs may be viewed on the Judicial Branch website at http://www.jud.ct.gov/external/super/e-services/ebrief_tech_standards.htm.
2. An electronically submitted brief must be in Portable Document Format (PDF). Information about free PDF conversion software is available on the Judicial branch e-services web site. . Direct conversion of documents to .pdf format is strongly encouraged. Regardless of the method used to create the .pdf document (conversion or scanning), the file size may not exceed 1.5 megabytes (MB).
3. An e-mail confirmation will be sent to the submitting party upon the successful electronic submission of a brief. A copy of the e-mail, in paper or electronic form, must be retained for the pendency of the appeal.
4. A party who has electronically submitted a brief must notify counsel of record and self-represented parties of such submission. This may be done by e-mail or by conventional mail. If done by e-mail, a PDF copy of the brief must be attached. Proof of notice, in whatever form provided, must be retained for the pendency of the appeal. This does not supplant the certification requirement that must be satisfied when a paper brief is filed.
5. Electronic submission of appendices or any other material is prohibited.
6. Users must certify, by checking a box on the appropriate screen, that an electronically submitted brief (a) is a true copy of the paper brief filed with the Supreme Court; (b) has been redacted, if necessary; and (c) is free of computer viruses. The signature line for the electronically submitted document may contain either the individual attorney's juris number or the typed name of the individual who signed the paper brief filed with the Supreme Court.
7. Electronic submission of a brief does not eliminate the requirement of filing a paper brief and the appropriate number of copies in accordance with applicable Practice Book rules.
